

Keynote Speaker – Ada Cheung

Ada Cheung is a New Zealand Registered Dietitian and has worked in the areas of adult and paediatric diabetes, obesity and community paediatric. Her role as the Healthy Eating – Healthy Action (HEHA) District Co-ordinator provided her with the opportunity to support schools and early childhood centres in improving their nutrition environment. She believes in the importance of improving health in the individuals through a population health approach. She is a frequent invited speaker at various Asian professional and community organisations on the subject of adult and paediatric nutrition. Ada is currently working on her research thesis at the University of Auckland on the impact of school edible gardens on student eating behaviour, the school environment and the wider community.
